Subject: about the begining of the year

hi jeffrey,

.. in two days it will be january 1st, so i was just wondering what job do you want me to start first, virgin island or the house here in new york? in the mean time i talked with some people i know, artists too, we used to work together and i told them i might need their help in january in case we start a project, so we have some people available.

if you want me to start the house in new york first, then i should probably make some samples first and send them to you and then decide..., for that i might need to spend some time at the house and figure out what to do.

anyway, till then, happy holydays!!

and, happy new year!!!

nicola
