Subject: The fwd divan

Dear Jeffrey,

I respect your decision regarding the fwd divan, but I am not convinced that it is the best decision.

I believe the criteria for the decision making includes:

- Obstruction of view out the fwd windows
- Power chair psychology – the aft is the important (CEO) seating vs. the fwd divan.

I am going to leave the outboard curvature to the backrest the same as the aft divan and install it in the helicopter tomorrow morning to see how much of the window is exposed / obstructed.

Also, I am curious to visualize if the difference in the upholstery of the "center arm rest areas" of both divans present enough of a difference to establish the importance of the aft divan?

I can e-mail you – possibly even skype you if you want?

I can always cut the outboard curved sections off the backrest if you decide to stick with your decision.

Lastly, any thoughts of having us embroider initials or a logo in the flat panel of the center arm rest of your divan?

Sincerely,

Eric Roth
