sorry, i got the picture..

yes, what you say could be done too, but what are we gonna do with that square border in the middle of the ceiling? then is cutting the painting..

..and then it might be too much..the ceiling is huge. and i dont know how that blue we have in the painting is going to match with the colour of the furniture..

this is the rendering of the entire ceiling.. you can see the center panel, and the original idea. , we might just want to match the blue and continue with a similar design.. thought?>

Mr. Epstein,

Please find attached the original ceiling rendering you have requested.

It is a photo of the original, miniature mock up of the ceiling, done in watercolor. You will see that the center panel is heavily decorated and it becomes much less so toward the outer edges.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best,

Bryn
