Subject: maybe this is worth saying

I am and always have been a radical; I think the world we have created sucks;; we dont talk about this much because it has never been your issue but, jail and what you have been through, will radicalize anybody; so now that you have suffered injustice you may be just a little more interested in understanding why injustice happens; one of my answers has been exactly what you just pointed out -- do judges really learn to judge and and they have to think about what they have done? what about lawmaker? my curriculum is meant to make people into thinkers first and actor second
