Dear Jeffrey,

It has been far too long since we were in contact. Hope you are well? I have been following you vicariously through various mutual friends...

Life in my world is as busy as ever and the demands are every increasing on my time. Having said that I really enjoy the work on behalf of the UK and I can make a real contribution to the UK's economy and prosperity through the activity and interventions I make.

I have to go to Paris this coming weekend, 11th to 14th Sept, and I remember that you have an apartment in Paris and was just wondering if I might be allowed to use it for the weekend? This is a private weekend and I am already booked into a hotel but on the off chance that you would allow me to use your apartment it would be really great from a number of perspectives.

If this is either inappropriate or unavailable then I apologise for asking.

I look forward to catching up with you personally before too long and in the meantime send you my very best wishes.

Andrew.
