

To: jeffrey edwards[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Sat 9/19/2009 5:37:06 PM

---

The first week was a bit tight.new place of living, volatile schedule, many hours of dancing.and finally a first weekend in Lyon! i am admire of my school, teachers, city,frenche culture,architecture, food! people are nice, i was surprised about that, because french people are very special... i am trying do my best and talk just in french, i've marked a big progress after 5 days! if i continue like that,so after 3 months i will talk fluetly!

there is so much to visit, to see, starting from promenad on the streets, museums, theatres, dance house...Lyon is very alive city!

Long time ago i haven't had such a strong desire to dance,i can't wait Monday go to the classes! today i woke up very early and i went to know more about the city! i was like a kid, who got an ice cream, or Christmas gift,i was so happy to see such a beautiful streets, buildings, i took the big breakfast outside in the petit cafe...i can't tell you how much i do enjoy my time being here.i am appreciate every minute. I've desited to stay in residence, even experience like this is nice and unforgettable!

My roommate is from Prach, i am glad that i stay with a good person, she is very polite and taintless,very clean!she is 25 years old classic dancer...

Thats all news for today! i am looking forward to hear from you soon!Big kiss!

P.S Kajan and Tchaickovsky sounds in my room every day! Thank You! I've got a best remembers from Florida!

---

Lauren found her dream laptop. Find the PC that's right for you.