Jeffrey –

Great news – the engineers and certification people accepted our design!

Additionally, we are setting up a test flight for next Friday the 23rd with various densities of Vibration isolation foams to minimize the vibration radiance.

I expect to then prepare test cushions immediately after Sikorsky calculates the data and we work it through.

Thanks for the opportunity to learn from you.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey –

Now that I have stayed up half the night thinking about your arm rest, we tore apart the back seat of my Mercedes and put my plan into action.

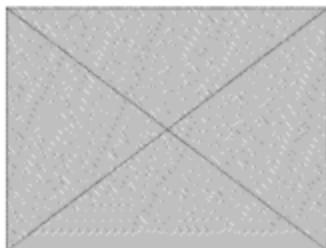

I still have some tweaking to do with regard to the structural bracket(s) that I want to create to tie the arm rest to, but if you agree that this is the goal, I can work out what I need to and present it to Engineering and Certification to see if they will accept this design modification to the divan.

I want to keep this balling rolling fwd as time is certainly of the essence, sp please call me to discuss.

Sincerely,

Eric Roth
