just got back from France: hiking, biking and visiting my daughter and her family living in Paris for the year. I'm interested in renewable energy technology (following my love affair with my Tesla for the past 18 months, and investment in the company. I'm also about to buy an amazing electric bicycle www.pimobility.com, although I'm not about to invest in the company..... spending a lot of time on the west coast with our children. My sons started a business in SF www.neonmonster.com they are selling comics, designer toys, vinyl records and art. they have a booth in the design district during Art Basel this year: I'll be in Miami around then if you're going to be in Florida. What's up with you?
