My solution is that you should realize I can do other things in addition to buying shampoo and washing dishes-and do it without cheating you- so you could let me help. Otherwise asking me what I do is silly. The answer will have to be 'I bought shampoo' since that's what you asked for.
I have no interest in living in a separate house.

i guess also from your defensive , message, with no solution at all, as usual is that you agree that we should find you your own place in which you will not feel so controlled.
