Subject: gaze heuristic, and another interesting person...

I could not find a clear cut example Gigerenzer's gaze heuristic for robots catching balls, but this is the wiki (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gaze_heuristic) if you want to follow up. it is basically just an example of what friedman recognized 5 decades earlier.

by the way, another creative person asking some deeper questions on concepts is Lera Broditsky at stanford; she works in language and imagination but is interesting to talk with and seems to know at least some of her stuff- might be an interesting phone call....see
