That's why I'm not that happy in this moment. Until now, this year I accomplished almost everything I wished for. I still have problems with my scar but the face I'm sure in one month, after august it will look good.

The agency here in Paris was quite ok, I had some jobs but not important and indeed not what I've expected at least in terms of money, but next week I talked with them and I should have 2 tests. I'm booked for 3 jobs here in september and I want to come back and do them and after I have 2 possibilities go to london for the rest of the month and october and november come to miami, or come directly there. This is what I would wish... but you know very well I appreciate and need your advice coz sometimes I get lost and I hate when that happens... :(

As soon as get home I do the blood test and start as soon as I have the results to compare after I start. I already bought for one month...

good question...

Well I'll see all my friends and probably go in the country side with my family... I wish to go also a few days to the black sea...let's see if that will be possible. I need to charge my batteries.

After that have all the jobs in Paris all september and after probably come to the states to miami as I said before.

And was thinking to go also to London, but I'm not sure I'll make it, though I wish.

I'm going home next saturday. I wanted to leave sooner but I can't change the flight.

However I wanted to spend 14 of july here coz is the national day and will be a huge demonstration.

I'm not so proud to say but I haven't book any show this time though I had options and fittings! :(

I'm really sad coz I didn't expect this, and believe me I've been very confident.

But in this moment I'm kind of down, no money, no job... no shopping :P! there is also a good news...I'm booked for 2 good jobs in beginning of september and middle sept here.

Probably I should go home but I'm very bad in bending down my forehead!
kiss...
