Subject: Hi there!

Jeffrey!

Was wonderful to see you and thank you for EVERYTHING! :) )

Oops, after rehearsal yesterday I was feeling the pain in my right heel, feels like stepping on nerves that I have off and on felt since November. I could at some points hardly walk, ugh. Talked with Peter, he said I need to get an [REDACTED] to look at what is going on, he thinks it is likely to do with [REDACTED] and that I should take it very seriously. It seems that I had not felt it as much because I wasn't jumping in dance class (due to lack of funds) for most of that time but in this piece I do a lot of leaping and jumping that lands on that foot. Soooo...can you recommend anyone good in New York? I will need to find someplace that hopefully will be happy to receive cash and hope for a discount. I only have "emergency" insurance and only for Europe...they are great when I needed them but don't cover this. Peter says each test was going for about $1400 a few years back. Important thing is he said to get on it and get informed. Any helpful suggestions welcome! (I don't go to doctors here and even when I go it is rare.)

Wow! Hot in New York! What a surprise, but also found it in blume...nice: )

Go to check out another apt today and really hope to nail this down...some possibilities but nothing I feel great about. I am willing to be flexible at this time as life is good!

BIG hug to you!

: )
