Good Morning Sunshine!

Wish I could join you this morning...

It is beautiful here... The sea feels different...really nice... Water a perfect temperature, unless of course you like that arctic too; ) The beach very natural, not many people, soft. Found 2 sand dollars, whole the first night! In Florida I only find bits n pieces. The first one I thought was maybe still alive so I put it back...but then I found another, with some slight pink/purple coloring, very nice...I come alive on the sea!

I did yoga as [REDACTED] did his weights, probably again today... Cute, after he said, "I wanna be able to do that, and I'll bet you feel really good afterwards" Yup! ; )

The caretaker here said something really interesting last night... He said he has done a lot of diving and he said that reefs that are alive are very loud! Did you know they make noise? He said it is not a bad noise, but loud! Interesting, no? Maybe he will take me diving... I have been hoping Igor would, but hasn't worked out so far... Any further news about him?

I think I got the flip working and made a mini video yesterday I will try and shoot out to you shortly, to see if I get this right: )

Big hug to you Jeffrey full of Luvvvvv!
