I am more open than you think...

When you ask me a question and it is not yes or no you think I am talking back... Jeffrey, I want to make a real change not receive more advice that has nothing to do with me. I was trying to be as clear as possible so you could to...that you take that, saying no, you are mistaken as not open is to me being sincerely here! You would be doubly pissed if I nodded my head, and didn't take your advice because there were details missing that were necessary and the solution didn't suit me so I didn't do it, no?

You have no idea what it is like...none! And I stay as beautiful and heartfelt with always best intentions...but really, really sad that I get SO mistaken. Not a victim, in fact by speaking and trying to bring clarity I am happy that I, indeed, did. You have many people who nod their head to you and are totally unhappy because they do not know how to say something is not working for them and are unhappy in their work...they are all around you. I have been extremely supportive, naturally, because I care to you and those around you.

Thank you for what you hoped to share... Perhaps you can understand that I may be out of the mold you are used to? Therefore some slight alteration would have been helpful, successful?

Send you love and all the best anyway...

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]

Jeffrey,

You do realize I am quite shy and protective of much that has happened in my life...

It is very big for me to ask and share that which I have. But I really realized after much illness and challenges what is important to me and that a lot of what stood in the way of change was my way of thinking. Soooo I have been opening myself up to thinking, looking at things in a different way. I appreciate you and observe that you have a great deal of integrity and good intention in what you say and do, which is a precious thing not always so often found and I have, a bit shyly, nervously, opening up!

I have decided that come what may I wish to and choose to come from my heart and to put myself in as much alignment with who I am and what I love to do! And to let go of what happened in the past (hasn't been easy), not be a victim of it! I am very sensitive and I honestly do not understand much of what I have experienced, just that I am happy, really happy of who I am and who I choose to be!

Sooo, I am at a wonderful point in my life and know that I have very special, unique, beautiful talents and knowledge to share and it is time for me to prosper!

I am getting close to getting out of debt, do need to get my foot cared for and sincerely hope to not get so into debt over that but will do what it needs, what it takes. But want to let you know I really appreciate you and if you feel you have ideas or such that you feel to share in my reaching my goals, they are welcome!

Thank you!

Hug!
