Subject: here's where it is here's what I've done so far -- connected with Dan Ariely (he's in Israel now; he said he'd send 2-3 ideas for focus and people) -- he's in. I'll tickle him to see where he's at at this point.

Nathan Wolfe -- just spoke with him yesterday. I didn't mention this with him, but he would be in if we wanted him -- interested? and if so, what topic?

I'm likely to see Tony Damasio in Aspen in early July as well as a few others. Will talk with them then.

Are you interested in Brian Greene? He's wrapping up the Sci Festival, and could be a fun candidate.

Do you want to go broad with topics (I know a great oceanographer who is amusing, fun, super smart) or do you want to stick more closely with brain, physics....

is there anyone you are particularly interested in?

I'll see Barnaby in Chicago in two weeks and will work with him to generate some other names/thoughts.

I need a better idea of what I can promise these guys and will I be working with Cecile or ?

will start working on this we'll go over details as I start to put these together.
