It is my opinion that IRH should do the work.

◆=A0 They have the staff, tooling and sway with the boatyard and we ha=e a warranty or at best, someone to hold accountable for the finished prod=ct.

The answer is = it is likely we can find another vendor, but the value is lost in the details.

In order for them to perform the task, we would likely have to decommission the barge and measure, then report. Then wait for the product then install....

Any gain would be lost in the details and would seem a fruitless exercise. JMO
