instead i suggest " science cannot YET explain," . otherwise too much of a declaration

I will look up the video and I agree with every point you make
But we agree - I think- that scientism is misleading and can be dangerous.
Science cannot explain experience including the experience of doing science
Science cannot explain consciousness
Science is an activity in consciousness
Theories are conceived in consciousness
Experiments are designed in consciousness
Observations are made in consciousness
Consciousness is the ontological primitive not matter Matter is the experience of sensations and sense perceptions in consciousness . It does not exist as such

Consciousness must be included in expanded science even though there is no equation for it

I'm off to lecture
Wishing you a joyful day

If you look at the you tube of steven j gould and sheldrake, gould points out that a carrot is as highly developed as a cow. so eating meat or carrots is the same :)/ how about trying to find points with science on which you can both agree. penicillin. cured syphilis. not herbs, meditation, energy work, etc . the person who discovered it was no more or less conscious than his neighbor. . but it took scientific methods to develop and save so many lives. syphilis was around for thousands of years , surrounded by conscious beings. conscious without the language of science is also conscious , but not as useful for certain things.

Yes sir! You said it when we first met
Science is one language in consciousness
There are other languages consciousness uses - art music poetry love delight pleasure joy and of course suffering as well Consciousness is life

there are different levels as well as different languages.of " description " and my guess is each like a genome is personal. that doesnt mean we can t agree on some levels. yes its red, yes it weighs 10 pounds.

yes there are balls in both basketball soccer and baseball. but . .

It would be possible to describe everything scientifically, but it would make no sense; it would be without meaning, as if you described a Beethoven symphony as a variation of wave pressure.
