Jeffrey,

<=iv>I am certainly glad that you have thick skin and care little about what=the press says. I am sorry that you have to appear tolerant against =ntolerance.

From all appearances, you fulfill the=challenge of Kipling when he said:

"If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,<=div>
Or walk with Kings - nor lose the com=on touch,
If neither foes nor loving=friends can hurt you,
If all m=n count with you, but none too much."

In spite of outward appearanc=s, I know very few know how you really feel and I can only hope that that =eeling is shown best in the naming of your airplane.
