I have dealt with children of the wealthy, for many reasons, want to lead, experience, enjoy what they think of is a "normal" life. Problem is that we're in a different world with different views. I would urge you NOT to take a car on your own if you are in Managua or any other part of Nicaragua. Like it or not, airline ticketing, hotel people recognize your name. You shouldn't put your head in the sand. =C2 Separate from the Zika virus, which is spreading, it is really silly to risk a problem in a country where, local police make no money, are easily corrupted and even my best relationships move things at a snail pace. With Brussels today, and in the near future, bad things are more likely, I don't want them to happen to you and yours
