Dear Julie,

I am following up on a request by Mongolian Prime Minister Saikhanbil=g. He met with Professor Summers and would like to have him visit Mongolia=to discuss the economy and economic policy with key decision makers includ=ng the PM himself.

The background to this is that the PM is facing a delicate balancing =ct. With the sharp decline in commodity prices Mongolia needs economic and=policy adjustment, but the politics of this is hard to navigate not least =because next year is an election year. I think he wants professor Summers to bring an independent, highly c=edible voice to the debate.

Since I knew that professor Summers was coming to Beijing I opportuni=tically contacted Fred Hu to reach out to you to make this happen.<=r>

We would be most pleased to have Professor Summers in Mongolia, even =f only for a day or so. Ulaanbataar is only 2 hours flying away from=Beijing. We would host professor Summers and give him the support he=needs to credible engage with policy makers, and public and press if needed/acceptable.

We would cover his trip and would provide a fee. Unfortunately =e are constrained by World Bank rates for consultants, the maximum of whic= is about $1500 per day. We can be somewhat flexible in the number o= days.

I sincerely hope that professor Summers is interested in this assignment. If so, we would need to act fast as we would need to arrange the=trip and a contract.

Please let us know of Professor Summers' interest and availability soon so we can put things in process. I copy Jim Anderson, world bank country manager in Mongolia, who will need to be involved in following up as I will be traveling to Europe in a couple of hours. He would also be Professor Summers' host in Mongolia.

Many thanks in advance and I hope this will work out.

Best regards,

Bert

Hi Julie,

It should be possible . Let me connect you directly with my friend Bert Hofman who is the China director for World Bank in Beijing , so that you can discuss and coordinate as appropriate .

I'll discuss with Larry today. If Lar=y wanted to consider going Mongolia prior to heading to Beijing would that=be an option?

Hi Larry,

The world bank chief in Beijing has asked if there is any possibility for you to make a quick side trip there after our conference. The prime minister is eager to see you. I believe you have met him before.

Let me know if you have any interest.

Best,
