Hi Jeffrey,

It was a great pleasure talking w/ you today - the time flew by.
I hope I wasn't too much of a blow-hard. Noam is far smarter than I could ever hope to be.
There's lots more to talk about, with respect to language.
If you're interested in algebraic methods - as i mentioned we have a workshop in October on this and Noam's new theory.

Anyway - I also enjoyed the conversation about twitter & the market, since it's something I know nothing about, and I'm always interested in learning. Here's that article about the sentiment analysis company I mentioned. So - your take was that they can't really do what they say they can do, despite claims to the contrary. I'm still surprised that people buy into this kind of thing. I'm no expert- but you are!
The president just sounds like the usual sort of thing: make some bucks, then sell and get out...(the words "serial entrepeneur" always raise red flags for me...)

best wishes
bob
