Busy week, lots of talks. Best =ime for us would be the 16th. Have a talk at Harvard at n=on, but free after that.

Your computer guy reminds me of the f=rst time I met Carnap. He couldn't understand why people tal=ed languages, with all their irregularities and complexity. Why doesn't everyone just talk Esperanto (which, he didn =80 t realize, just uses standard Romance grammar with very minor changes=? Or better, why don't we all talk predicate calculus?

Frege, Tarski, and others also thought that human language wasn't w=rth studying. One can even construct paradoxes in it. Quite a depart=re from a rich tradition which in the modern period goes back to Galileo a=d the great figures of modern science.
