Subject: Fwd: economics of intelligence is intelligence is the equivalent of mental power. A time derivative of mental work done though people might get the same work done its is the speed at which it happens that is the determining factor. =C2 more energy release in a kg of coal than in a kg of dynamite. =C2 does money translate into time? ?, a limited resource? a means of exchange. a currency, intelligence seems to be the capacity to get the job done quickly. , if one person can do the job quickly, there is more intelligence than if it takes 2 people to do it in the same time. mental work. mental power for the same mental work.
