What attr=cts you the most about coming to [REDACTED] and how do you believe the experience of living in [REDACTED] will change you?

[REDACTED] I have been to Paris on many occasions. I feel strongly connected to this European capital from many perspectives, includi=g family and education.

[REDACTED] Among my most recent visits to Paris, there are a few fashion shows that I attend=d; [REDACTED] where I met people from across the world. Every time I spend time in Paris I was able t= feel how vibrant and beautiful this city is and how much it has to offer because=of the artistic and historical richness of Paris. I have benefitted from also living [REDACTED], which is where I initially developed an appreciation for ar=s and culture, museums, the opera and discovering Italy's wealth of cultural offerings very soon, realizing that I wanted to pursue my passion for art history at AUP.

Attending [REDACTED] would also represent the natural evolution of my education, both received at home and in school: [REDACTED] and thanks to her I attended the [REDACTED]. I am fluent in [REDACTED] but also in English because I studied it in school and mastered it during my frequent trips to the United States, where [REDACTED] live. I have been exposed and appreciate the American culture because of my internships with [REDACTED] in New York City. My family origin and the education I received seem to lead me to an American University in Paris where I will be able to put my skills into practice and pursue my academic objectives and goals.

Studying [REDACTED] at the [REDACTED] would be a great opportunity to further discover the French culture. I believe that the education I will acquire by completing an [REDACTED] program, coupled with additional internship experience, will equip me with all necessary skills to achieve my future career goal to work in the art or fashion industry.
