Hi Jeffrey,

Dear Jeffrey,

Apologies for taking so long to res=ond - this simple question has somehow developed into a larger obstacle th=t I have been attempting to formulate the answer to for a while. Thank you=for following up - I really appreciate your interest and desire to help!</pan>

I have reached to people close to m= to help market myself and the most common answer received was that I am a=azing and many people are awe-struck when they see me. This doesn'= quite help find the answer, but gives me comfort to know such a reaction =s common.

What defines me most at this point =n life are my achievements: at 15, as well as attending school, I was play=ng tennis and going to Art School, at 17 I completed, simultaneously, Russ=an and British educational systems with great results and received an Art =chool Diploma (tennis had to give way to beauty sleep). At 20 I was workin= in the City of London and at 23 in New York on "Wall Street =9D. Seems that living in the world's capitals has become my main h=bby.

Sounds pretty intimidating when I p=t it on paper, but I like to think that I have remained a fun and amiable =erson, open to meeting new people, exploring new places and new experience=. Beyond food, I love traveling - one of my favorite trips was backpacking=across Vietnam, from Saigon to Hanoi with a best friend. Trying a fried si=k worm was definitely a highlight, not a very pleasant one. I enjoy drawin= and the arts, from museums to ballet and opera to rock and house concerts=and contemporary installations, and wish I had more time for it. I partici=ated in a backgammon tournament this summer at the University Club and lea=nt how to play squash there.

Now another difficult part, though =ou were right this should not be difficult, how to sweep me off my feet - = am realizing that I am looking for someone who will give me opportunities=to continue exploring the world and discovering myself, cultivating my cre=tive and adventurous side - I completely agree with you saying that = am slightly naive and inexperienced - I hope I am childlike, without bein= childish in my everyday life. Great date, be it a private viewing of the =et or MoMa or the Frick, a dinner at Michelin star restaurant or an empty =each, an evening at the opera or ballet or a rock concert, impromptu saili=g, skiing trip or a small plane flight - I am interested in so many things= it's hard to choose.

I'd like someone who would =e equally attracted to my looks, brains, drive and character and I al=o suspect that I am a more straightforward person than most - hopefully th=t's valuable!

I hope you managed to read to the e=d of such a long email and thank you for your time,

Best,
