The other logical idea is Ken Frydman who, for many years,=worked for Mort as the Communications guy at the Daily News, then went off=on his own and has continued to advise Mort on a variety of things--includ=ng his Senate balloon of a few years ago. They certainly understand each o=her and, I believe, have a deep well of good will. Also, Ken is very plugg=d into NYC media, where the most of the attention is going to come from.=C2◆

Yes, several. Le= me put together a few suggestions. But probably Matthew Hiltzig would be =est. He handles high profile individuals (for many years was Harvey Weinst=in's guy) and has lots of crisis experience. But I will think further.=I saw Mort at a dinner last week. We had a nice conversation but he <=pan>repeated himself to everybody there.
