Hello again. I thought I should tell you my whole situation since I am,=probably inappropriately, once again asking for your help. I started a =assage company, [REDACTED]. I have set up massage rooms a= the Phillipe Starck building at 15 Broad, the headquarters of PATYKA USA =a cosmetic boutique in the west village), and also offer my services to Th= Standard Hotel. There are about 6 other residential buildings that are=interested and in the beginning stages of setting up or waiting for last a=provals from the board. Have also just been contacted by Abigail Michae=s Concierge with an interest in using my company as a preferred vendor. =AOI have 6 licensed massage therapists who I am getting great responses fr=om and have been really reliable and professional.

I am finding some success in finding locations to set up shop but =t isn't working. Feedback tells me that the concept is a good idea,=to kind of create personal spas in high end residential buildings, and som= buildings have been willing to take on the expenses of the table, linens,=etc. But it has been a lot of work and has not shown financial reward. =AOEither the feedback is wrong and I have taken another one of my bad idea= too far, or else I am not implementing it properly. I feel like if the=e is high quality massage services available in a residential building of =00+ multimillion dollar units it should be generating business. If I we=e to get my massage license and was able to take on the clients it has bee= able to build up I would have a really strong private practice and may ha=e some extra business for my other therapists. I can't decide if I =ould be putting this company on the back burner and getting my own licens= or if I should continue working on it until I do figure out how to genera=e business in these buildings.

Another idea that seems most appealing right now is sending my resume=out to luxury resorts abroad. I have have a thai massage certification =nd also a certification to teach ashtanga yoga, with a fair amount of expe=ience in both over the past couple of years. My asking to go to the sch=ol in Hawaii is because I have heard that it is liked by these types of jo=s. and this option seems a million times better than absolutely anythin= else I can think of.

I feel like I need your advice more than anyone else's and really=wish you were here. If you have suggestions of what the smartest thi=g to do at this point would be please send them my way!!!
