The Netjets=BBJ's are being offered with the remainder of the leases and a purchase at the end of the l=ase at fair market value. The $250K per month lease and the FMV are negotiab=e now. The current lease on the first aircraft expired Dec 2010 and the second Dec 2011. Joe is suggesting low $40.0 million range.

Larry, thanks for the update on the 727. I agree =ith you that the STC and SFAR 88 compliance is huge in terms of our ability to =ove the aircraft. We do continued to get calls on the aircraft but the question on the fuel tanks is always an issue. Even if we deactivated them people are still confused by the FAA rules and shy away.

I think the aircraft can be sold even in this market=but pricing is an issue, We are offering the aircraft for $10.0 million righ= now and we need to reintroduce the aircraft as soon as the STC is complied with. I would like to run a new round of ads when that is done and we might want to review our pricing to $8.5 to $9.0 as the asking price. Bu= in order to do this I need some help on the advertising invoice that I send=as my boss will restrict my ability to buy ad's

I do want to mention two things:

The GV sn 592 is not sold it is back on the market a= the buyer needs to trade an aircraft and Leading Edge is hesitant to take the trade. B of A will finance the trade so eventually the deal may go through.

Netjets is shutting their BBJ operations this week.=A0 They have two 6000 hour aircraft that they are going to sell. Leading Edge is also the broker. I think that these aircraft will likely be sold in the low $40's maybe even in the 30 million dollar range. I am closing =atching this situation and will keep you informed as Joe Carfagna called me just la=t night.

Best regards,
