I am sorry for you that this happened. I not only did not chose not to be involved but argued for you and the dog to be with me in new york, =he fact that as you write ,it is too late is obvious , the fact that lie all accidents they have may the same result but have very different causes and degrees to which they could have been prevented, . from negligent, careless , to reckless. done after being warned, and done with total disregard .after being put on notice. car accidents , can be no fault of =our own, can be your fault. can be as a result of driving drunk, can be as=result of driving with no expeneince, but believeing you can drive , can=occur over and over when nothing is learned from the first couple of accidents. i the consequencs in real life are all different for each =A0differenet category. the irresponsibile driver , though warned = that they have no business behind the wheel. looks at the dead people =n the other car, and says well there is nothing i can do about it now, its=already done. and it is too late to change it.

Ok.

You chose not to be involved in this whole process. It is too late now to 'discuss' what is already done so let's not do it. It=has nothing to do with you and I can't handle yet another fight about =omething that is too late to change..
