Jeffrey,

If you decide to install the mirror on rear bulk head, I need to make sure there is a layer of insulation behind the mirror, there is a great deal of=20 transmission noise the is generated to the tail compartment would effect ou= acoustics right behind your head. The fabric you have currently installed is acting like a muffler and noise filter.

Do you think its best to wait until our first annual inspection=20 to install the mirror, since we have to remove the headliner to access the rear bulk head to install the mirror? these are all components of the cocoo= interior, I'm leery of loosing the quite db's we currently have.

I will have Eric Fedex sample board of mirror to palm beach for your=20 review.

your thoughts?

thanks,

Larry
