sorry , but the rock is not a rock it is a projection of a local awareness . when there is a critical mass of local awarenesses it seems to be material. nothing more. as the rock is different to each consciousness localized :)

Thoughts on the flight from Dubai to LA :

A rock is the most solid example of a material object . However , before an object can be labeled a rock , it is an experience ; it is a sensation , a color, a shape , a form, a gritty taste , a smell . These are perceptual activities in consciousness / awareness, known in unconsciousness , labeled in consciousness and modified forms of consciousness. A rock is a modified form of consciousness . The same applies to a mountain or a galaxy or an atom . In fact atoms particles and waves are even more abstract notions for modes of subtle knowing and experience in consciousness .

The same principle applies to that which we call a hand , a brain , a body , a neural correlate . They are modified forms of consciousness . The entire universe and all manifest existence is a modification of formless awareness .

Awareness existence being are synonymous .

Form and formlessness alternate as eternal existence .

This principle applies to all human constructs , including Big Bang , cosmic and biological evolution.

Manifest existence is a notion.
