Thrilled to!

Library: agreed with shagreen or any other material. But=what is wrong there are the panels themselves, the raised part is totally =rong proportion, that is why ones eyes feel so uncomfortable. Your eyes no=ice how wrong these proportions are earlier than your brains do. It is of =ourse the tortoise shell but whatever material you'll put there will n=t solve the problem. The way to do it is to remove the raised panels on th=se with tortoise shell and choose a material to cover these panels fully. =he material in question mirror or shabreen has to disappear in the backgro=nd, if it does not the only thing you'll see is how odd and badly prop=rtioned these panels are... Between you and me that's why I liked the =ld spotted mirror. One would no longer notice them, we can try a panel of =hagreen and one mirrored panel.

Let me sketch the pavillion please. I feel I am right... We could have slid=ng wood panels closing the glass openings... I'll try to have sketches=for when you are there, and please don't make your mind up until we ha=e talked about it together.

I have a good idea for the outside tub, I'll sketch it also next week.<=r>No worries, just give me. Bit of time.

All best,
