Bannon's "nationalist-populist" platform is coherent, rational, and, apparently appealing to a great many people. I can't see why at this point he wouldn't want to use his world-stage stature to make an argument for it and to claim leadership of it. What does he have to lose? What else is there, except to suck up to Trump, and get the chance to be manhandled by him again?

All good. I am everybody's darling. Have to keep reminding people that I am actually quite unpopular. Apparently thing of the past--for now (excepting among a small circle of journalists). Ira Rosen, a 60 Minutes producer and a friend of Bannon's, came with a message from B: "You own me a few million." Rosen also says he believes SB no= weighing the strategy of making a formal and public break with Trump. I c=n't get together today because I have to leave for DC at 11AM to speak=to 800 book buyers (not to mention pre-signing 800 books). Then tomorrow A= to LA to do Bill Maher show. Making money is hard work.
