The roof is rotting out in several places and all the electrical was completely rusted out(see photo below) There is a hole in the roof which goes up through the floor of [REDACTED] porch where the piece of ply board is put to cover the hole.

Basically this area will be a bedroom and bath for the chef/trainer/what ever extra staff we may bring with us, a sitting room for them, and a small kitchen at the far end for the maids to use during the day, and the chef/trainer to use at night. I think it all makes sense.
