Am in London now about to embark on this: <<http://www.discoveringyourcosmicself.com/>>
www.evolvingcaravan.com. &nb=p;As I mentioned when we met, we are doing Europe in Jan, US in June (would like to start in San Diego at your facility), and Asia in October. I am one of the speakers, but Alexandros (cc'ed to this mail) is the main guy organising the European leg.

The objective of this is to network with people doing work in this field (personal development, etc.) and identify more people with "special abilities." I had a good meeting with Rupert Sheldrake. It turns out, knows Brockman and introduced him to many of the militant atheists that Brockman now represents. We talked about building the infrastructure you and I spoke about a few years ago of getting people like JE who can fund stuff, new up and coming scientists, etc. to develop research in this area.

I plan on doing this annually. I have been doing it myself for the last few years, but there is a whole group traveling now. &nb=p;We are running mini-experiential conferences in different cities in Europe this month. We are in the last throes of promotion and was wondering if you would give a tweet or shout out to this endeavour. Happy to share the results and continue making introductions to people who are interesting (like Edd, Noah, etc.).

If you are agreeable, Alexandros can follow up with some collateral.
