Figuring out:

1. Criteria for projects
2. Advisory board=/div>
3. Right legal structure
4. How much philanthropi=t should talk to scientist over the website

Any thoughts about all that?

I've talk=d to a number of scientists about Satio. I realized that many of them are t=emendously depending from universities and hate that.

Liberating scientists from bureaucracies might be a good message for that... it's a very long-term goal but feels like a right direction following general gig economy trend where you less depends on organizations. =

We're already videoshooting some scientists to play with right format to present their projects.

Is it a bad idea to limit the access to only who is over $1B wealth? I've noted that it's different how millioners and billionaires support science/non-profits= Millioners usually trying to make it bring some profit to their business, billionaires - not Anyone in Boston that I should meet while I'm here this week? Joe/his assistants haven't been responding.

Meeting Joscha, Lukin, some other quantum physicists.

I put together Satio deck (it's how I named 'kickstarter for science' project) - attached.

Looking for two types of people right now:

- scientists/projects to fund (really cool and unique and searching for financing).

Have a few in pipeline, creating a funnel;

- potential advisors to select and curate best projects (established scientists able to say yes/know on projects sourced).

Attached is more info.

It's really early, lots of things to figure out but I thought you might have some ideas about whom to meet.
