We're kicking off 2012 with a lineup of sleek stays in our favorite capital cities. In London's trendy Marylebone, the Grazing Goat is a pub with rooms close to the indie boutiques of Marylebone High Street and Selfridges, the fashionistas' favorite department store. Want Paris à la mode? Hotel le Bellechasse has a Marais location and whimsical interiors by Christian Lacroix. Stateside, Sofitel New York puts you at the core of the Apple, while the Tony Chi-designed Sky Lofts at MGM Grand Las Vegas are a swank base in the party capital of the West. And if skiing's on the agenda, head to Park City - Hyatt Escala Lodge is a ski-in, ski-out sleep in the Canyons Resort. Schuss on.

French Style, Manhattan Address

Get ready for a taste of Paris in Manhattan at this Midtown charmer. The Sofitel offers a mixture of French elegance, American comfort and a little Art Deco flair. On 44th Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, and just a stone's throw from Times Square and the Theater District, the Sofitel's location is as ideal as its comfortable rooms and its sleek 30-story glass and limestone facade.

You know the saying "Go big or go home"? Consider it the motto of Skylofts, the MGM Grand's exclusive hotel within a hotel. Lofts floating 29 stories above the Vegas Strip start at 1,440 square feet, every inch drenched in Tony Chi's discriminating designs. The service is grand too, starting with the Rolls-Royce airport pickup and the personal butler at your beck and call. Plus, this perch provides preferred access to MGM's myriad dining and entertainment venues, from restaurant Joël Robuchon to Kà by Cirque du Soleil.

Esperanza is a dramatic cliffside retreat in Cabo San Lucas that's been drawing the celebrity set for years. You won't find the Cabo Wabo, tequila-swilling party crew of spring break infamy here, only peace and tranquility among gorgeous pools with unmatched views of the Sea of Cortez. Raspberry margaritas, fresh-caught seafood, an aloe-cucumber facial, private decks with hot tubs and ocean views - this is Mexican living at its best.

Minutes from the high street hustle of Oxford Street and sandwiched between the boutiques and mews houses of London's refined Marylebone neighborhood, the Grazing Goat is a stylish eight-room hotel and gastropub. In the downstairs bar, roaring fires, antler chandeliers and mounted deer heads set up an urban après-ski-lodge vibe that's echoed in the charming guestrooms complete with giant wooden sleigh beds. It's the perfect place to tuck into posh pub grub, swig a real ale or two and kick back in a chalet-style room after the bell for last orders rings.

Imagine a downtown enclave with glazed red brick buildings, where 20th-century warehouses are converted into restaurants and shops. The opera is nearby, along with a couple of world-class theaters. Right in the center, within walking distance of just about everything you need, is a renovated century-old building that houses a gem of a hotel. No, it's not New York or San Francisco - this is downtown Denver, where the Hotel Teatro offers a great city weekend with Rocky Mountain views.

Bellechasse is a 34-room spot on the Left Bank, in the Faubourg St. Germain district. The building itself dates back to 1840, but the interiors have been flamboyantly reimagined by Lacroix so that staying here feels like staying in an elaborate work of art. Close at hand are the banks of the Seine, the Musée d'Orsay, the Louvre and Boulevard Saint-Germain and the Eiffel Tower are a mere 15-minute walk away. Here, Paris is at your (incredibly stylish) doorstep.

Go beyond Napa and Sonoma for a romantic retreat at Hotel Les Mars, one of Wine Country's poshest properties. A focus on the finer things is what makes this hotel stand out: European charm, antique furnishings and en suite extras ideal for a new or rekindled romance. The welcome half-bottle of white wine is enticing, as is breakfast in bed or a nightcap by the fire. But Les Mars's signature comforts reside in Healdsburg, home to top wineries and some of the country's tastiest restaurants.

Koh Phangan has a hedonistic reputation from its monthly Full Moon Parties, beloved by backpackers and gap-year youngsters. But the Rasananda, on the opposite side of the island, is pure Thai class. Known for its intimate size and attentive staff, the resort - 44 villas and suites, each with a private pool - matches the surrounding area's natural beauty without being overbearing. The spa's teakwood treatment rooms are disguised by the jungle's flora; the signature bistro serves locally inspired dishes alfresco. Together, it all makes the Rasananda an escape to island paradise.

The new, 177-room Strand Hotel NYC brings style back to Midtown Manhattan's bustling Fashion District. Rising from a block of aging warehouses-turned-offices, this boutique hotel's elegant interiors play off these blocks' Art Deco heyday, with many guestrooms featuring unencumbered views of the Empire State Building. All of the city's sites are within striking distance of these digs, and the hotel's rooftop bar, Top of the Strand, is a destination unto itself with a hip vibe and stunning panoramics of the iconic skyscraper lit up in all its glory.

Picture a village not 90 minutes from L.A. built into green hillsides - white stucco buildings with terra-cotta roofs, hidden away from everything and surrounded by woods. Add a championship golf course, an absurdly well-appointed tennis facility and a world-class spa, and you have the Ojai Valley Inn & Spa on California's Central Coast. It's close enough to the city for a weekend away, but far enough that you'd never know it.

Perched on a hillside 1,100 feet above the Caribbean Sea, Ladera offers guests the chance to escape and unplug in luxurious two-story treehouse-style villas and suites. While the accommodations lack TVs, telephones and air conditioning, they do come equipped with private plunge pools, open-air showers and breathtaking views of the sea and St. Lucia's famous Piton Mountains. Popular with honeymooners and couples, Ladera is a place to settle into a comfy lounge chair with a book, take a nap, sip rum punch, take a dip in the pool - and repeat.
