The problem as stated by the other side.

Note: CMDS is the Holding Co of which I currently own 49.9% and should set their 50.1% as part of the deal (to make it 100% mine)

Deloitte's are refusing to support Informa's proposed treatment in =MDS of the fee for the grant of the licence, as income. Without that, =e can't create distributable reserves in CMDS for it to be able to =uy-back Informa's 50.1% shareholding at the $2,487,500. The buy-back is =likely to be challenged, and potentially deemed illegal in Hong Kong.

We are holding those shares with that value as an investment, so if we =an't recover the value (via the buy-back or some similar means) we =ould have to write-off our investment of $2,487,500. This would be =ompletely unacceptable to the Informa Board (Peter and Adam), so they =on't approve the deal.

The only way to make this work is if Informa receives $2,487,500 in =exchange for its shares, and without the buy-back option, that really =eans we need someone to buy them for that value.
