
From: David Stern <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Monday, June 4, 2012 8:34 AM
To: Jeffrey Epstein

China ranks 3rd in millionaire households

The number of households with a net worth above =100m in China has reached 648, jumping from 13th place in 2009 to 5th =n 2011, according to a global wealth report published by Boston =onsulting Group (BCG).

China ranks 3rd in millionaire =ouseholds

The =umber of millionaire households across the world rose to 12.6 million. =he U.S. still boasts the most millionaires with 5.13m households in the =op bracket, despite a decrease of 129,000. China is in striking =istance of Japan, which is in second place with 1.58m households. =ritain ranks fourth.

Soaring millionaire households =n China and India

According to a global wealth report by BCG, the new entrants, =ostly from China and India, bring the number of millionaire households =cross the world to 12.6m. China's number of millionaire =ouseholds has soared from 850, 000 in 2009 to 1.293m in 2010. In 2011, =hina's millionaire households increase by 15%.

Top five countries with household net worth =ver $100m

=