Hi Jeff,

This year in March I want to try a few different adventures. I am taking the month off and I want to learn a few new things.

I want to meet new people. I want to do some new exciting things. Learn new things about the world...

I'm happy to think about any location as long as it's something meaningful and interesting.

For example, I would love to go to an interesting monastery, maybe with the Dalai Lama. I would like to go to Cern and see the nuclear accelerator. I would like to go to Ferrari and see how they make cars and drive one. I would like to go somewhere in nature, maybe with the World Wildlife Fund, and also maybe understand something about happiness in Myanmar.

So — What adventure would you recommend? Any specific ideas? Directions? People to meet? Things to do?

Thanks a lot
