They are treating it as a request to reschedule instead of an =beyance. (I did say/ask for abeyance and if not then =eschedule).

Subject: RE: Rescheduling of Asylum Interview For Case Ending in [REDACTED]

Rescheduling of Asylum Interview

[REDACTED]
Dear IRENE:

This letter refers to your Form I-589, Application for Asylum and for Withholding of Removal, filed with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS).

We received your correspondence dated 11/10/2017 requesting to reschedule your asylum interview on 11/14/2017.

This was your first request to reschedule your asylum interview. Because you established "good cause" for your request to reschedule your asylum interview, we are granting your request and will mail you a new interview appointment notice in the near future. Repeated requests to reschedule are discouraged. Repeated reschedules place a significant burden on the Asylum Office. The Asylum Office will not grant future reschedule requests except where you establish "good cause." Good cause is defined as a "reasonable excuse for being unable to appear for an asylum interview." In reviewing whether there is good cause to reschedule your interview, the Asylum Office considers the facts and circumstances of each case individually. Repeated requests to reschedule are discouraged and may affect the determination of good cause.

Employment Authorization:

If you applied for asylum on or after January 4, 1995, you are subject to a 150-day waiting period before you can apply for employment authorization, and an additional 30 days before employment authorization can be approved, for a total of 180 days. The number of days a completed asylum application is considered pending does not include any delays requested or caused by you while your application is pending with the Asylum Office or with an immigration judge. See Title 8, Code of Federal Regulations section 208.7. This time period during which your asylum application must be pending with USCIS and/or the Executive Office for Immigration Review before you may be granted an employment authorization document (EAD) is called the "180-day asylum EAD clock."

Delays requested or caused by you while your application is pending with the Asylum Office may include:

- a request to transfer your case to a new Asylum Office or interview location, including when the transfer is based on a new address;
- a request to reschedule your interview for a later date;
- failure to appear at your interview or fingerprint appointment;
- failure to provide a competent interpreter at your interview;
- a request to provide additional evidence after your interview; and
- failure to receive and acknowledge your asylum decision in person (if required).

Your request to reschedule your interview is a delay caused by you. We have stopped counting days towards your 180-day asylum EAD clock as a result. Your 180-day asylum EAD clock will resume when you appear for your rescheduled interview.

As of the date of this letter, your asylum application was pending 874 days.

Sincerely,

For Susan Raufer
Director
NEWARK ASYLUM OFFICE

Respectfully,
