Hi Joi,

My own interests are in integrated cognitive architectures (i.e. things that Josh Tenenbaum does), with a focus on computational models of motivation and affect. I am modeling the emergence of goals and decision making from a set of cognitive, physiological and social drives, and the emergence of affect from cognitive modulation.

I would also be very interested in learning more about Deb Roy's work, because I love the paradigm of stepping up theadder of child performance as a way of understanding the mind.

Sure Jeffrey.

Hi =oscha, is there any particular person or group you'd like to =eet?

Ryan, can you help coordinate =his?
