hello mr epstein.

i am [REDACTED] wife of joscha bach.

actually i am not the perfect guide because i am in the end of my =regnancy and we have this little wild son which is not as good to =andle in sightseeing tours but i can give you some suggestions.

tomorrow in the morning around 10:30 i will probably visit an exhibition =f modern drawings in the kulturforum/kupferstichkabinett:

<http://www.berlin.de/orte/museum/kupferstichkabinett/>

it s located at potsdamer platz. there they can find several good =xhibitions and museums: neue nationalgalerie and the kulturforum, =specially the gemäldegalerie offers great collections of art through =he centuries.

another interesting cultural spot is the museumsinsel at hackescher =arket with the pergamonmuseum and very nice streets and bridges around =he spree river.there they could even book a short or longer boat trips =t every corner.

for nightlife i can strongly recommend the berghain club: =ttp://berghain.de/events there they could easily spend the whole night in an fascinating =mbiente.

prenzlauer berg is the district where we actually live.

the alternative scene is quite lost now in-between the modern family =offee places.

a good idea is to spend the sunday late noon or afternoon at mauerpark =ith its vibrant flea market and karaoke shows. the area nearby around oderberger strasse and kastanienallee is also =orth a visit and full of more ecnic coffee and lunch places.

at friedrichshain it s the area around simon- dach- strasse which is =orth a stroll in the evening.

if they feel like visit the park the tiergarten and the schleusenkrug at =he channel between tiergarten and zooligscher garten could be nice to =ool down.

at kreuzberg you still sing the most multicultural atmosphere. the area =round kottbusser tor at the maybachufer (turkish market at friday) and =ranienstrasse is very interesting.

i am sure they will explore a lot of great places if they follow these =irections and just let themselves stroll through the streets around =hese places.

if there are more questions they can mail me: mira.voigt@gmail.com or =all me: 0049/177/1725202 greetings from 37 degrees hot berlin, mira
