Valeria forwarded this to me. As I already wrote, the idea that the children would be thinking of suing him seems to me utterly=outlandish, and if there is the slightest hint of any such thing, I will react instantly and decisively.

If Max has any such conce=n, he can simply resign as trustee and do nothing. No one can sue him for telling his clients that he's not representing them any longer.=C2◆ He then does not agree to distribute the funds and is completely free from the threat of any suit.

My own feeling is what I wrote a little while ago. Ask Deborah to draft a letter, and go=on from there.

Does that seem OK to you?

re indemnity

ma= is worried that if he gives you money that the children will sue him.◆=A0 I am suggesting that the children sign a document that says they agree with the distribution and will hold MAX harmless for making it. .◆=A0
