Hi Richard,<=>

I think Max is the one who ne=ds to determine what his responsibilities as a trustee are. I can♦=80♦t advise him as that would be a conflict of interest with my represen=ation of Noam. I can, however, advocate for Noam and urge Max to be =ore liberal with regard to distributions. I can also let Max know th=t in my view he is not required to confer with Harry when making his distr=buti=on decisions. Not only is he not required to confer with Harry, =oing so gives Harry a voice that the trust prohibits him from having. ♦=A0 Perhaps I should give Max a call to explore why he believes he needs to=get Harry on board with the decisions, and that might help the situation.=C2♦ I can also write him a letter with regard to my interpretation of the trust terms. All he is required to do is to consider the interests of the remainder beneficiaries, not obey them. I agree the whole thing is a bit odd.

Does this help?

Thanks,

Deborah

deborah,

since it was a marital trust he wanted to protect himself and had a duty to determine how the money was going to be spent.

/div>

he thought you would have a view as to his ultimate responsibility that would inform his decision. I find it odd...
