Re Alex Shushkov, one of the attendees to Lawrence Krauss's workshop....I couldn't find much on Alex Sushkov yesterday, so Lawrence sent me the below:

Alex is research scientist at Harvard working on sensitive atomic physics measurements of symmetries and gravity. He is relatively junior, but has done outstanding experimental work developing new detection technologies for gravitational waves and axions. He was a postdoc at Caltech before that he did his PhD in Australia, and grew up in Russia, moving to Australia at age 15, without speaking English.. he now speaks English perfectly of course..
