Subject: Question from Brice re Mac

Below from Brice...please advise:

is Jeffrey running the latest Mac software OS X Mavericks or 10.6.8

The image consists of a series of horizontal black bars of varying lengths and positions, arranged in a stepped, architectural pattern. The bars are composed of thick, solid black lines on a white background. The pattern starts with a short bar on the left, followed by a longer one, then a shorter one, and so on, creating a sense of depth and structure. The bars are positioned at different heights, with some being higher than others, and some being lower. The overall effect is like a stylized architectural drawing or a abstract graphic design.
