Dear Jeffrey,

Great talking to you today. Trude Semb's catalog is =n its way to your address in New York.

Trudie is an amazing expressionist. As one journalist put =t; This is Edvard Munch meets The Ramones.

She still works figuratively with strong roots in German =xpressionism, inspired by artists such as Die Brucke (Emil Nolde, Ernst =udwig Kircshner, Karl Smith-Rottluff), Oscar Kokoschka, Egon Shiele, =ate Kollwitz, George Rouault, Chaim Soutine, Francis Bacon and =arlene Dumas.

Artist Tom Sachs recommended Trudie's art at a dinner =arty in Oslo after his exhibit at Astrup Fearnley Museum, Oslo. As =entioned Norwegian's are pretty conform people but there are some =ollectors, banks and firms collecting her back home as well. She's also had good sales in =enmark, Germany and The Check Republic. Our goal is to establish a =roader market for her art in the US. The US and South American market =s probably more susceptible to her powerful art that embodies so much =motion. Yes to Expressionism Renaissance.

Attached is a review and hereunder a photo link for a new piece; "The World That Never Was" (very cool retro Mad Men style painting), currently at eiberg Cummings Design's show room in slo.

I am in Florida until March 1st and back again from Oslo in April. If time allows and you ever manage to leave the tropics, I have 4 great paintings here that I could show you. One is called "Oblivion Seeker". It is Stella. She is such a gorgeous, strong young woman today at 18 years old. There were hardships for her growing up due to the accident she had as a child. "Oblivion Seeker" is my personal favorite. See photo attached. Another strong one is "Shoah" – photo attached.

- =Oblivion Seeker 59" x 79"

- =Shoah =9" x 83"

Enjoy the Caribbean! Cold day in South Florida.

All the best,

Kathrine visgaard
