Very hard time.

Mother had a =surgery this morning. It was decided late yesterday. Almost half of= all lung removed.

Last night, she went to the hospital w my father. A= he was awaiting a nurse to admit my mother, he went to the restr=om and slipped on the floor.

Somehow he fell on the floo= (he is very week as he last a lot of weight through mother's chem=) and had a very complicated fracture of his hip - resulting with his surg=ry this morning and total hip replacement. He was transferred to d=fferent hospital.

What is the chance that this happens??

Unfortunately my father is losing it - doctors n=eeded to sedate him earlier in day and restrain him in his hospital bad (he=should not move).

This is only one of many things that happ=ned within last 24h.

I feel like I am going through the hel= and it is getting only worse.
