Dear Jeffrey,

I wasn't about to come for asking help yesterday, when I asked you if I could come.. It's always a great pleasure and honor to be invited to spend some time with you, to have interesting conversations and to listen to your wise and important advices. Every time I see you, I leave your house amazed by your limitless knowledge and wisdom, I learn so much from you and appreciate every single moment spent in your company.

I'm continually asking myself: am I worthy to receive all of this immense generosity? Do I really deserve even a small part of this tremendous support and attention??? I'm greatly touched by your philanthropic activities.. all the great support that you gave to [REDACTED], what you are giving to me and to many many other young people is simply unique.. Not only the financial part but also your exceptionally precious time that you dedicate.. You can't imagine how special I felt when playing for you on Sunday!! It was a violin lesson I will never forget.. I heard amazing advices and learnt so much from a person who is not even a violinist - how incredible is that!!!

It is one of my life's greatest gifts to know you, to learn most amazing things from you, to be with you.. I feel so humble and unworthy.. but at the same time so incredibly grateful!!

Thank you millions of millions times!

Love,
[REDACTED]

sorry, but i gave you a the opportunity to earn the money, rather than merely asking for help, I have great respect for both you and your decision and wish you very very good luck
